

Essential Skills of Leadership and Teamwork Workshop

Learn the Key Skills of Leading at Every Level in the Organization

Leaders aren't born, they're made. And anyone can lead – you just need to know the ingredients of great leadership. When you learn what the best leaders do and then act consistently, you will find it easy to lead. In this interactive workshop, we break down the elements of leadership and actions necessary to develop and grow as a leader. Individuals will be inspired to lead from every level of their organization.

Participants will walk away as highly motivated leaders. They will discover and build on their past leadership experiences and learn how to quickly bring people together, the key for great teamwork. They will understand the importance of understanding and sharing purpose, so everyone knows who they serve, why they serve, and take responsibility for their role in accomplishing the organization's mission. They will learn the leader's mindset and how leaders think differently than others. And finally, they will see that the best leaders focus on positivity, and fully understand the changes they must make to be a great leader themselves.

Barry Moline has been a CEO for more than 28 years. From a moment at age 16 when he volunteered for a difficult assignment at a hockey game, he learned that leaders step up and take responsibility. That simple action led to greater opportunities, an early career refereeing professional hockey, including the NHL, and setting the stage for success as a CEO. Barry knows that everyone can lead and is eager to share the secrets of great leaders and their stories.

Teamwork and Culture: How Leaders Bring People Together to Accomplish More

Command-and-control, authoritarian styles of leadership are no longer effective to create great culture and teamwork. A leader's new power lies in their ability to share a joint purpose and meaningfully connect with their people.

Drawing on experience and lessons learned from extensive research for his book CONNECT! How to Quickly Collaborate for Success in Business and Life, Barry discusses the secrets for creating great company culture as well as the specific techniques successful leaders use to motivate and unite their people to deliver top-tier performance. Attendees walk away with tangible, actionable strategies to meaningfully motivate and connect so they can build teams and retain employees in this challenging work environment.
