

The Future of Work

Learn the forces transforming business today, the engagement employees need, and the leadership you must provide to succeed

Business is changing at breakneck speed, and it's difficult to understand the forces and choose how to respond. The workforce has shifted – it's shrinking – and there is greater competition for talent. Younger generations are demanding more from their employers or moving on. Some leaders want to cover their eyes and ears and ignore reality. But successful leaders know: This is the time for action!

The solutions require us to stretch our minds, learn and implement new techniques, and engage our employees. We must create a strong workplace purpose that gives meaning to our employees. Our culture must be positive and inclusive. We need strong engagement, creating high-impact teams. And we must be sensitive to stress and mental health and their impact on our employees and the workplace.

Finally, we discuss the actions individuals must take to be top tier leaders. We emphasize the importance of responsibility, why communicating your message is key, and how to create positivity in your life and at work. Finally, we delve into influence and persuasion, and how leaders can use these tools to succeed.

The only way you can succeed in the future is to recognize the trends and ACT

Key Takeaways

- Societal Pressures
 - The shrinking workforce, from Boomers to Gen Z, and what it means to you
 - What top companies are doing to engage employees and how you can respond
 - The impact of generative AI on productivity and the future of jobs
- Organizational Solutions
 - What employees want and how to provide it: Culture, purpose, teamwork, engagement, and positive mental health
- Your Leadership Growth
 - Responsibility, communication, positivity, and the secrets to growing your influence

Standing still is not an option!

CONNECT WITH BARRY

For more info and to schedule a program:

Barry Moline

barry@barrymoline.com 850-251-5060

BarryMoline.com

“Barry offers both the skills and inspiration to succeed.”

Liz Joyner, Founder & CEO, The Village Square

